

Meet the Candidates!

Village of Elmwood Board of Trustees

Lou Allgayer

Lou Allgayer, current Elmwood Village Board of Trustee member, is running for re-election to the Board because he feels strongly about developing the town. There is an opportunity for a new housing development in Elmwood that he would like to help bring to fruition.

Lou and his wife, Suzie, have lived in Elmwood for 22 years and have owned and operated several successful businesses here including the Block 10 Apartments where they currently live. He has served not only the community as a Village Board member but also has served as County Commissioner. Lou has been active in local and state politics for years. His vast experience is an asset to our community and to the Village Board. Lou brings his knowledge and common sense to every meeting. Lou's sincere love for Elmwood is evident in his commitment to the town. He would like to maintain low operating costs so that the town can grow. Lou is a forward thinker who would like to see Elmwood grow, welcome new families provide an environment where current and new businesses will flourish, and set the tone for future improvements.

A vote for Lou is a vote for Elmwood's future.
